| DT-Book is one in which source pages are initially split by default at tags such as dt (The &lt;dt&gt; tag defines a term/name in a description list. The &lt;dt&gt; tag is used in conjunction with &lt;dl&gt; (defines a description list) and &lt;dd&gt; (describes each term/name).) A non-DT book is one in which source pages are split using h tags. DT books are useful for booklet use case and non-DT books are useful for 'annotated documentation' use case. So, both versions will be ingested. Other requirements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>- link update should work within DT or non-DT books. Meaning that DT books should connect to only DT books. Similarly, non-DT books should connect to only non-DT books.</li><li>- remove search bar on booklet page</li><li>- on document pages, search should include only non-DT books.</li></ul> |             |                        |               |
